

COMING: OMI "NEIGHBORHOOD PLAN"

First meeting: Tuesday, February 21

Residents of this community may take part in preparing a "Neighborhood Plan" designed to bring new services and programs to the area.

Rai Y. Okamoto, director of City Planning, and Carl A. Williams, Director, Mayor's Office of Community Development, in an open invitation to the community, said: "A plan, and the planning process, is an important first step to maintaining and improving the vitality of the community. By identifying problems, opportunities, goals and aspirations, and by setting priorities, it is our hope that OMI's most pressing needs can soon be met."

The first public meeting Tuesday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at Ocean View Recreation Center, Capitol and Montana Sts., will present an outline of purposes.

A final revision of the plan should be ready for community review by summer at which time priorities will be set and funding sources identified.

Questions about the planning process may be directed to Lou Blazej, Head of the Neighborhood Planning section, City Planning Dept. 558-4541.

Lonnie Lawson, the OMICA Planning Committee Chair told the OMI News that he sees this as an opportunity to get input into planning for services for the community. He is in accord with the goals of the proposal, but cautions that we must not end up with "nothing happening." Funding will be the key to making the final outcome worthwhile, and this must be a consideration from the beginning. He encourages people to become involved.

Described as the biggest turnout in years, over 100 neighbors and friends came to the OMI Community Association Annual Meeting. The pot luck supper proved again that the best cooks in San Francisco are in the OMI. This set the tone for a business meeting which followed.

A new concern for neighborhoods was evidenced by the number of city dignitaries who showed up in an off-election year!

Topping the list was Mayor George Moscone, who spoke to a receptive audience about bringing government to the neighborhoods, and indicated that community aspirations will now be heard. "Supervisors must listen to their constituents or be defeated in the next election!" and "Everyone can be a first class citizen." He praised Roy Jackson for the quiet, effective way he approached city hall and with a committee, presented community concerns.

Supervisors Lee Dolson, District 9, and Quentin Kopp both paid tribute to the retiring board and pledged to serve the community. Kopp spoke particularly to the revitalization of Ocean Avenue. Dolson's Administrative Aide, Eileen Wing, and Lewis Jackson, Chair of Dolson's Advisory Council, stayed for the evening and took the opportunity to talk to people individually. Deputy Chief of Police Jerry Taylor, former captain of Ingleside Station, talked of improved police services. Community College Board Commissioner, Bill Maher, took the opportunity to get acquainted. Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Brown of the Public Defender's Office were Perker Meeks' guests. Police Commissioner, and OMICA member, Burl Toler dropped in.

Committee reports were listened to attentively and appeals made for more participation in the work of the organization.

NEWLOOK FRONTS

Ocean Avenue storefront renovations are already underway or completed by several member merchants, and soon public improvements will also be visible in our neighborhood shopping district. New trash receptacles should be installed shortly ... remember to use them!

UDAG GRANT ?

The HCI staff and the Merchants Association met last week to discuss more federal funding for Ocean Avenue through HUD's new Urban Development Action Grant program (UDAG). This application for funds, if approved, will bring undergrounding of utility poles on Ocean Avenue, promotion of the development of the Homewood Terrace commercial site to bring back a good large supermarket, installation of diagonal parking on some of the sides streets off Ocean, and acquisition of a site for a metered parking lot near the centrally trafficked (ed. note sp?) business area and/or provision of rear access for some storefronts for deliveries, garbage, etc.

ANY IDEAS FOR NEW OCEAN BUILDING?

At this meeting, held on January 25th, the vacant Shell Station lot at Plymouth and Ocean was also discussed. Several inquiries have been made to the OMICA office as to the status of this property. The owner is considering development of a commercial building on the corner and is open to suggestions from the community as to the types of businesses needed there. Any suggestions, or further inquiries, can be made by calling HCI at 586-8000. They will report to the developer the results of your calls.

REHAB. LOANS

As for HCI's special State funded rehabilitation program in a portion of the Ingleside area, the staff reports that over 50 homeowners have been interviewed in the program and over 40 of these residents have already received a free home inspection and cost estimate of recommended improvements. The first California Housing Finance Agency loans are now being submitted to Citizens Savings this week, so the funding to improve your home is now available. Watch for further news, or call 586-8000.

HOUSING QUESTIONNAIRE WATCH FOR IT.

HCI is sending a questionnaire to area homeowners to generate some statistical information on residents and housing conditions. Please take time to return the form if you receive one. A general summary of results of this survey will be printed in the OMI NEWS at a later date.

CHILDREN: CREATE A FILM!

During the month of February, children in the community will have an exciting opportunity to participate in the creation of an animated film of an African folktale. A series of Film-making Workshops, sponsored by the Ocean View Branch of the San Francisco Public Library, will be held on Tuesday afternoons at 4:00 p.m. on February 7, 14, 21, and 28. The Workshop leader is Mr. Henry Sanz, a talented filmmaker and student at City College, who has had previous success in guiding film production by children. The children will learn animation techniques, camera, production, and sound techniques, and they will appear in the completed film.

On February 28, there will be a screening of the completed film and a reception for the young filmmakers, to which all members of the community are invited. The film, which will be based on a well-known Ashanti tale, "Why Spider Lives in Ceilings" will become part of the Public Library's permanent film collection.

Children who wish to participate in the Filmmaking Workshops are encouraged to pre-register with Mrs. Joan Jackson, Librarian, at 586-4193. The Ocean View Library is located at 111 Broad Street.

Other February activities at Ocean View Library are a program of Afro-American stories in honor of Black History Week scheduled for Thursday, February 16 at 4:00 p.m., and a film program for pre-schoolers on the theme of "Stories from our Past and Present" to be presented Tuesday, February 28 at 2:00 p.m.

MERCED LIBRARY

A CHILDREN'S FILM PROGRAM will be the item of the day on February 23rd at the Merced Branch of the San Francisco Public Library. Films for children ages 3-5 will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Films for older children (ages 6 and up) will be shown at 4:00 p.m.

The Merced Branch is located at 155 Winston across from Stonetown.

PRE-SCHOOL STORYHOUR for children ages 3-5 is held every Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. at the Merced Branch of the San Francisco Public Library. Pre-schoolers are invited to come and to share stories.

Citizens' Support For Library

A city-wide citizens group which will insure the continuing growth and extension of services of the San Francisco Public Library is now being formed. Under the guidance of Keep Libraries Alive, an existing Library support organization, this group will have the opportunity to promote good library service through consultation with Library administration members, with personnel on the Mayor's staff and with the Board of Supervisors. Members of the citizens' group will also be able to inform residents of their own neighborhoods and communities of the Library's goals and programs.

The group is to include at least one member from each of the City's supervisorial districts. Its first meeting is scheduled for February 9, in the evening, and will be a planning session with City Librarian John C. Frantz. During the months of February, March and April the group's major activity will be to work for alloca-

CANDY SALE

ST. MICHAEL'S GOAL — $4,000

January 26 marked the beginning of St. Michael's annual "World's Finest Chocolate" drive. Last year Sister Enda, Principal of St. Michael's School, in conjunction with the P.T.G., raised $4,000 profit because the students did such an excellent job of selling the product.

The bar is real milk chocolate with whole roasted almonds, it contains no chemical additives and will sell for $1.00 . . . quite a bargain when you consider that the label is redeemable for $1.00 off when you buy two whole submarine sandwiches at a Viking Submarine Sandwich Shop. The nearest Viking Sandwich Shop is located on Ocean at Plymouth.

The drive will run through the first two weeks of February. People interested in helping should call the school at 585-4781.

VOICE OF PENTECOST

If you have wondered about the several two-tone, cream-colored buses parked in a vacant lot of the 2000 block on Ocean Ave., they belong to the Voice of Pentecost and are used to carry children from all over the city to Sunday school at the church's new edifice in the former El Rey Theater building.

Founded in 1966 in the former Grace Methodist Church at 21st and Capp Sts., the group bought the El Rey last fall and have been remodeling ever since.

Under the aegis of Rev. Marilyn Gazowsky, the church has developed a gospel choir which has appeared at both San Francisco State University and Golden Gate Park Band Concourse; the Singing Redeemed Quartet, which has recorded two albums; a weekly newspaper; and a regular radio broadcast. In addition, Voice of Pentecost conducts a Christian School.

In the words of Earl Gray, one of its dedicated spokesmen, "The Voice of Pentecost is an incredibly fast-growing church in a city where many churches are dying. If you would like to learn more about this church and its date of dedication, call 586-8404."

San Francisco State Scene

by NKD

San Francisco State, in its 79th year, enters its current spring semester with a somewhat smaller student body than last fall, which is traditional for spring. Some 23,000 folks are now on campus at 19th & Holloway, compared to an enrollment last year of 23,300 at this time.

Dr. Charles Stone, Director of Admissions & Records, says that this spring's drop is because of fewer applications from the community colleges. He attributes it to an overall dwindling population of college-bound people.

San Francisco State had a record enrollment of more than 24,000 students last fall, a sharp contrast to the 6,812 attendance on the Lake Merced campus in 1954 when the school was opened in this area after 55 years downtown.

* In February, the spring calendar at San Francisco State burgeons with activity:

--- Among the first events are the Cinematheque film offerings coordinated by John Webber, Instructor in Film. McKenna Theater will have a free showing of the first presentation of a "Senegalese Cinema" series on Wednesday, February 8, at 12:30 p.m. It opens with Ousmane Sembene's "Black Girl" and "Barom Sarret." (This series will be continued on Wednesday, February 15, with a free showing at 12:30 p.m. of films by other Senegalese directors, Ababacar Samb and Mahama Traore.

--- A complimentary offering, "Career Planning Seminar for the Managerial Woman," will be presented Monday, February 13 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at Knuth Hall in the Creative Arts building on Holloway. This seminar is sponsored by the School of Business and the Simmons College Alumnae Clubs.

Its founders, Dr. Margaret Hennig and Dr. Anne Jardin, who lead the conference, have directed an unique graduate program in management at Simmons College in Boston. They have accomplished outstanding research on women in business and have written a definitive best-seller, "The Managerial Woman." Their studies have shown that "certain definite attitudes and characteristics have helped career women advance to managerial jobs." They will explain the background and results of their study at the February 13 workshop to which the public is invited free. Tickets are available by calling the School of Business, 469-1276.

--- The University's Children's Repertory Theater presents its first production of the semester on Saturday and Sunday, February 25 and 26, at noon and 2 p.m. in the Creative Arts' Arena Theater on Holloway. The offering will be "A Kid's Summer Night's Dream," slated to "bring all the charm and excitement of Shakespeare's charming work to juvenile audiences." It is directed and adapted by Dr. Bo Westerfield, Assistant Professor of Theater Arts, with original score by Don Stitt.

(Following its two-day opening at the University, the production will be available to tour schools in the Bay Area through May.)

--- The noted pianist, William Corbett-Jones, Professor of Music, who has performed numerous concerts involving cycles of classic composers, will play an all-Bach program on Monday, February 6, at 8 p.m. in Knuth Hall. He has programmed the Bach Fantasy and Fugue in A Minor, Five Little Preludes, Toccata in D Major, and the French Overture.

--- The spring Artists' Series concert will be the return to the University of the Alban Berg Quartet of Vienna on Sunday, February 19, at 3 p.m. in the McKenna Theater. This ensemble received acclaim when they played here in 1976. One critic wrote: "...the result is awesome and utterly superb...highest possible recommendation on all counts."

Their selections will include work by Mozart, Beethoven and the contemporary Polish composer, Witold Lutoslawski. There is no admission charge for the concert.

--- "If you knew in advance that you had one last lecture to give — what would you say?" This challenging question is being answered at S.F. State on its "Last Lecture Series," being given in the Student Union Conference Room C. The first speaker is Dean DeVerre Pentony of the School of Behavioral and Social Sciences on Wednesday, February 15, at noon. He will be followed by Dr. Joseph Axelrod, Professor of Comparative Literature and Humanity, on February 22. The unique series is sponsored by the Cooperative Campus Ministry.

BAL REUNION

The Balhoa High Class of '73 will hold its 5-year Reunion with special invitation to classes of '72 and '74 at the Airport Hilton Hotel International Ballroom, Saturday, May 27, 1978, from 8 to 2. OMICA NEEDS SURVEY

The OMI Community Association is at present developing a survey of the need for social services and programs in the OMI Community.

Joelle Adlerblum, Project Director, and Veronica Hunnicutt, Chairwoman of the Research Committee, will be heading this effort, and will also be working in cooperation with the Department of City Planning.

SUPERVISOR DOLSON IN THE COMMUNITY

Supervisor Lee Dolson is developing a District 9 Advisory Council of individuals from every segment and area of the District to keep him informed of the needs and problems of the District. The Chairman is Lewis Jackson, co-chairman Louis Alsopp.

The Council held its first meeting Wednesday, January 18th at the Miraloma Improvement Clubhouse. Supervisor Dolson and Captain Edmund Cassidy of the Ingleside Police Station met with some twenty members from different parts of District 9 - Bernal Heights, Miraloma Park, Ingleside, Glen Park. "The exchange of information and ideas, offers concrete solutions both by Captain Cassidy and others, and the chance to meet each other was stimulating. As the Council expands in membership and knowledge of the District wide problems, it should prove a valuable aid to Supervisor Dolson and to everyone in District 9," Lewis Jackson reported.

On January 7, Supervisor Dolson attended the installation of Reverend Lewis Allen as newly elected President of Southwestern Neighborhood Improvement Group (SNIG). On January 28, he was a special guest of the Annual OMI-CA Meeting.

THE BRAVE 33

They said the firehouse was haunted. It has stood on Broad Street near Plymouth since 1896, the pride of Engine 33, a horse-drawn pumper-rig that protected the Ocean View neighborhood for nearly 80 years without failing day or night.

It was converted for motor-driven trucks, late. With the narrow doors only allowing one thin truck, the firehouse was obsolete. It was closed in 1974, classified as surplus property by the San Francisco Fire Department. But people still saw dim lights in the buildings and heard strange noises, especially on dark foggy nights. The sounds and ghostly apparitions were reported in the spring — April — when the early summer fog would swirl in thick clouds down Broad Street. They said these were the voices and workings of the 30 men who took turns manning the firehouse during those horse-drawn days. Men who had died long ago. Men who on the night of the Great Fire of '06 pitted their strength against the flames. Even the men of the Brave 33 were called to save the downtown. Called, but too late.

Robert Katzman bought the firehouse at auction and moved in last fall. Mr. Katzman is an ascetic young man whose eyes twinkle in a leprechaunish manner. He becomes animated as he speaks of the firehouse, and obviously relishes the prospect of refurbishing and restoring the tall dignified Victorian building.

The firehouse is in remarkably good condition, the foundation is solid and the walls so thick they shut out even the rattling of the trolleys that continually pass by. There is a hush about the building, as if it waits for something. Perhaps it waits for the sound of the alarm again, calling the Brave 33 to action.

The building has two floors with 18 foot ceilings. There are large sunny windows looking out on Broad Street and onto a small garden to the rear. The kitchen is almost as it was at the turn of the century, except the expected huge black stove is replaced with a modern white range, looking incongruous under the galvanized restaurant hood. All is immaculate, carefully kept, first by the firemen and now by Mr. Katzman.

There is a story that the Captain of the 33 would hold a white-glove inspection weekly, and if a speck of dust was found, even on the horses, the man in charge would be docked ten days' pay.

In the drying tower, where the hoses were hung after being used, there is a dove cote-like room where the firemen would hide out from the captain occasionally. The tower is over three stories tall, rising over sixty feet above the street. Here they hid and indulged their fantasies in graffiti that describe the captain in unglowing terms.

Mr. Katzman is charmed by the firehouse and finds it a welcome home. He says that he has lived in haunted houses before in the New England area and adds that he has not run into any ghosts at the firehouse. But it is not spring yet and the fog hasn't swirled in, thick and pale, cloaking Broad Street in mystery. Maybe in the spring when the anniversary of the Great Fire comes near, maybe the bells will clang again and the faint sounds of horses neighing, harnesses creaking, and the shouts of the men from the Brave 33 will be heard again.

Crime Prevention Report

Unlike the hula hoop or swallowing goldfish, the skateboard seems here to stay. Each year thousands of youngsters and adults alike are attracted to the sport, trying new and more dangerous stunts and seeking bigger and better thrills. And with the stunts come more accidents. Injuries requiring hospital treatment have soared to over 100,00 a year nationally. Twenty-eight people have died in skateboard accidents since 1975.

The number of accidents can be reduced if skateboarders use safety equipment and take a few precautions. The use of safety equipment — such as helmets, knee and elbow pads, and gloves — is very important (and should be worn at all times while skateboarding.) Shoes with crepe soles — for good footing — should also be worn. And heed these precautions:

always be alert for cars entering or leaving driveways. Do not ride on crowded sidewalks. Make sure your skateboard is in good condition and meets safety standards. Don't borrow someone else's skateboard. Most importantly, be sure you know how to ride your board properly. Parents should not permit a child who is too young to have the proper coordination to have a skateboard.

Because of the numerous complaints received by the Police Department, the Crime Prevention Unit recommends that all skateboarders familiarize themselves with the Traffic Code Section, which regulates the use of skateboards. The Section prohibits the use of a skateboard on any sidewalk within a business district and on any roadway (anywhere) within the City and County of San Francisco. It also prohibits the use of a skateboard on any roadway or sidewalk at nighttime. Skateboarders must always yield the right of way to pedestrians and vehicles.

If every skateboarder would follow the above regulations and use the proper equipment, the sport would continue to grow and become safe and enjoyable for everyone.

In the OMI, a safe skateboard area has been created at Brotherhood Way Rec. area located at the foot of Head Street, south of Randolph Street.

The Broad Street Firehouse's drying tower evokes memories enhanced by the fog.

Property Tax Postponement AB 1070

Most of California's older homeowners can now postpone payment of their property taxes, according to Speaker of the Assembly Leo T. McCarthy.

Legislation signed by the Governor allows low and moderate income homeowners over 62 to defer payment of part or all of their residential property taxes, beginning with the payment due on December 10, 1977.

Speaker McCarthy said the measure was passed by State lawmakers to help the thousands of older homeowners in danger of losing their homes because of fixed income and rapidly increasing local property taxes.

Claimants must be 62 years of age or older as of December 31, 1976, own and occupy their home at the time of filing, have at least a 20 percent equity in the property, and have a total income of $20,000 or less. In the case of a married couple, only one spouse must be 62; however, any other co-owner must meet all of the filing requirements, including the age requirement.

One other important requirement is that the home must have a homeowner's exemption. This excludes $1,750 of the assessed value from taxation, reducing the amount of property taxes to be postponed, McCarthy said.

To eventually recover the postponed taxes, the State Controller will place a lien on the property for the amount postponed. The law also provides for an interest charge of seven percent a year to be added to the lien amount.

The postponed taxes and interest will be recovered after the property is sold or the claimant ceases to occupy the residence.

For more information about the program, homeowners should call the nearest Franchise Tax Board.

RECYCLE

Troop 345 recycles newspapers on the 3rd Saturday of every month in the parking lot at Lowell High School, 25th Ave. and Eucalyptus. Working in conjunction with the Lowell High School Ecology Club, who recycle glass, tin and aluminum. The proceeds help finance various activities of both groups.

It is preferred that the newspapers be tied (although we must cut the string when placing it in the bin) to facilitate handling. Magazines and cardboard cannot be accepted. The LHS Ecology Club would like to have the ends removed from tin cans and have them flattened. No Bi-metal cans, please.

Pilgrim Report

By Mattie Collins

* A sad time for Pilgrim Community Church is the loss of one of our most faithful members, Mr. Lorthan Peoples. His family and the entire congregation mourn his loss.

* A group of about 25 people attended a performance of the play, "Purly," on January 21. The evening was called "June Black's Night." June is also a member of the Pilgrim Community Church Choir.

* Gwendolyn Dilworth, who is the Neighborhood Coordinator of SAFE (Safety Awareness For Everyone) has set up a permanent office at 1345 Ocean Avenue. Any questions you may want to ask about crime prevention in the OMI area, please contact Gwen.

* "A Winter Interlude in Monte Carlo," a fund raiser held January 28, at the Longshoremen's Hall, benefited the OMI area Second Home. The Second Home is a place where teenage drug addicts and alcoholics may go to get counseling.

COMMODORE SLOAT'S ANCHOR

"I declare to the inhabitants of California that although I come in arms with a powerful force, I do not come among them as enemy to California, but on the contrary I come as their best friend, as henceforward California will be a portion of the United States."

So said Commodore John D. Sloat, July 7, 1846 and Mexican California became annexed to the United States.

Commodore Sloat was the commander of the Pacific Fleet in 1846, not a great responsibility in 1846 but important enough to be the one to raise the American flag over Monterey and declare California a part of a great empire.

Commodore Sloat School, built in 1924, rebuilt in 1976, carries out a nautical theme and adding to that theme will soon be an anchor acquired by the Building Committee, Sandy Goldberg, chairwoman, with the aid of the U.S. Navy and the 579th Engineer Battalion of the California Army National Guard.

The anchor was officially accepted by Commodore Sloat Elementary School on November 19, 1977 and is now undergoing repairs and painting at Fort Funston.

The 5,000 lb. anchor is 5 feet 8 inches in height and 3½ feet wide at its widest point. It is planned to be placed on a foundation in the front lawn facing Junipero Serra Blvd., the ceremony should be in the late spring.

ATTENTION, BECOME A GIRL SCOUT LEADER (All it takes is just a little love)

Do you have dreams of being a leader among followers? Do you seek adventure and fun? Do you enjoy the companionship of others? Well, then, waste no time and become a Girl Scout Leader, where the rewards of being a part of happy times abound.

"We have so many girls who want to become Girl Scouts within our district, but we don't have enough leaders," says Girl Scout Chequita Cox.

"You don't need any experience to become a leader."

Two friends can get together and become leaders of one troop. And if you have a social club, it can become a troop and you can sponsor it."

If you want to become a leader, give Martha Teigen of the Girl Scout office a ring at 467-3330.

"It doesn't take much time," says Chequita, "just a little love."
